

Durley VE75 Celebrations

As I am sure you are all aware from all the recent articles, website, posters and flyers, Durley are planning to celebrate, as part of a national programme, the 75th anniversary of the ending of the second world war in Europe. This was planned for the weekend of the 8th May 2020.

However, due to the current situation with the coronavirus, and the uncertainty that this is creating for any event in the near future, the committee that has been planning this event has taken the reluctant decision to postpone the Durley celebrations. We obviously hope that the current situation improves and that we can reschedule the celebrations for later this year.

As soon as any definite plans can be confirmed we will, of course, communicate them through all the usual channels.
